

CLIMATE CHANGE & BIO-DIVERSITY

EVENT IN MEMORY OF ACHILLE BOROLI

22 FEBRUARY 2024

2:30-4:00PM

Bocconi University
Aula Magna
Via Röntgen 1

Addressing the challenge of climate change implies tackling the loss of nature biodiversity. The adoption of the Kunming-Montreal Global Biodiversity Framework (KMGBF) for the first time has established that preserving biodiversity is a necessary condition to meet our climate goals and preserve the livelihoods of people. This is particularly true in the European Union. Action must thus be taken at all levels to move towards a nature positive economy, aligning global financial flows and increasing financing for nature on a global scale.

The International Advisory Panel on Biodiversity Credits, co-chaired by Amelia Fawcett and Sylvie Goulard, is tasked with the goal of helping to shape nature markets so as to increase and accelerate investment in nature in a way that delivers for people and the planet. Students will discuss these issues with them, together with Andrea Illy, an Italian entrepreneur whose company, world-famous for its coffee, is a leader in the preservation of biodiversity.

REGISTRATION REQUIRED

Fill in the REGISTRATION FORM
to participate

FOR INFORMATION
Bocconi University
Events and Protocol
eventi@unibocconi.it

WELCOME ADDRESSES

FRANCESCO BILLARI

Rector, Bocconi University

ANDREA BOROLI

Vice President, Fondazione Achille e Giulia Boroli

INTRODUCTION

CARLO ALTOMONTE

Associate Professor of Economics of European Integration, Achille and Giulia Boroli Chair in European Studies, Bocconi University

PANEL DISCUSSION

CLIMATE CHANGE & BIO-DIVERSITY

SYLVIE GOULARD Chairman, Deutsch Französisches Institut, and Professor of Practice in Global affairs and Geopolitics, SDA Bocconi

AMELIA FAWCETT Lead Director, State Street Corporation

ANDREA ILLY Chairman, Illycaffè SpA

Q&A

CIVICA CAPSTONE PROJECT COMPETITION - BOROLI AWARD

CATHERINE DE VRIES

Dean for International Affairs, Bocconi University

CLOSING REMARKS

GIANMARCO OTTAVIANO

Full Professor of Economics, Achille and Giulia Boroli Chair in European Studies, Bocconi University